Wendy Lee Davenport, 58, passed away peacefully on February 14, 2026, after a courageous battle with cancer. She was born on May 25, 1967, in San Antonio, Texas, where she was raised as the youngest daughter of Marjorie “Mergle” Davenport and Frederick Davenport.

Wendy was preceded in death by her parents, as well as her two older sisters, Karen Faye Davenport Bloxham and Barbara Davenport Wal.

She is survived by her eldest sister Brenda Davenport Palmer and Brenda’s husband Edward Palmer. Wendy was a beloved aunt to many:

- Richard (“Woody”) Palmer, and his daughters Meghan Palmer, Jordyn Palmer, and Ashlynn Poole
- Jennifer Palmer, and her son Darryn Palmer
- Ryan Ohler
- Stanley Wal
- Amanda Wal
- Steven Bloxham, and his sons Gunnar, Weston, and Coltyn Bloxham
- Shannon Bloxham, married to Jeremiah Shenefelt, and their children Joshua, Isaac, Elijah, Gabriel, and Abigail Shenefelt

Wendy lived a life filled with joy and a deep appreciation for the people around her. She loved participating in Down Syndrome community events, spending time training and playing with her pets, coloring, and enjoying meals out with family. She especially cherished family time, sharing her big hugs, warm conversations, and the unforgettable giggle that brought smiles to everyone who heard it.

Despite living with Down Syndrome, Wendy embraced life with remarkable independence and determination. After the passing of her parents, she lived on her own and proudly managed her household for many years. In later years, family, friends, and caring neighbors supported her, offering companionship and treating her as one of their own.

Wendy kept close ties with her best friend from high school, Helen, and her deep love for animals remained constant throughout her life.

Wendy's gentle presence, loving heart, and joyful spirit will be deeply missed by all who knew her. Her life was a testament to resilience, unconditional love, and the beauty found in simple, meaningful moments.

“ Wendy was the sweetest woman, who deserved a much better life than what she had to go through. Though we have not seen each other in many years, I still loved her very much and always thought of her and the family. My best memories of her when I was very young, probably 6 or 7, I was in a cranky mood and didn't want to come inside the house when we were visiting everyone and Grandma Margie, it was Wendy who came to the car and talked me into coming inside where we hung out in her room, and she very quickly cheered me up, and put The Little Mermaid on, where we both watched it together. Lol. I always had fun when we were little, I wish I had more memories with her, but those few I do have were happy and fun, which is the best to remember her by, the one who could make anyone smile and cheer them up. I also remember her printing out cute little pixel flowers and hearts from her computer. We will miss her, but I am comforted to know that now, she is no longer suffering in pain, and nothing will ever make her sad, because she is in eternal happiness with her mom and dad, and all of the family, including my mom, her sister. To think she is completely fine and healthy, in the arms of Jesus, Mary, and her family. That is the best comfort anyone could ever have. We Love You Wendy! ---- Amanda Rose
